THE QUESTION

What was the first Gospel written?

Asked by a THF member on May 18, 2026 · published November 9, 2026 · 9 numbered quotations · the 9 early Christian passages and 172 Bible verses we kept are listed at the back, each with a link.

The short answer From the text: says what the passages say

The early writers in our library say Matthew's Gospel was written first. Origen says he learned this by tradition and lists Mark second, Luke third and John last. Irenaeus gives the same order. They add that Matthew first wrote in the Hebrew language for Jewish believers, but they give no exact years.

POINT 1 OF 8

Origen received that Matthew came first

Our note · compiled by machine learning · From the text: says what the passages say

Origen does not present this as his own guess. He says he learned it by tradition, and he speaks of the four Gospels as the only ones undisputed in the Church. Matthew, the former tax collector who became an apostle, is named as the first to write.

> “About the four Gospels, which alone are undisputed in the Church of God under heaven, I learned by tradition that the Gospel according to Matthew was written first.”

POINT 2 OF 8

Origen gives the full order of four

Our note · compiled by machine learning · From the text: says what the passages say

Origen goes on to list the rest in order. Mark is second and wrote under Peter's guidance. Luke is third and wrote for converts from the Gentiles. John's Gospel comes last of all.

> “The second Gospel written was the one according to Mark. Mark wrote it according to Peter's instruction.”
> later in the same passage
> “Third was the Gospel according to Luke, the Gospel commended by Paul, which Luke composed for converts from the Gentiles. Last of all was the Gospel according to John.”

POINT 3 OF 8

Irenaeus places Matthew during Peter and Paul's preaching

Our note · compiled by machine learning · From the text: says what the passages say

Irenaeus gives the same sequence. He ties Matthew's Gospel to the time when Peter and Paul were preaching in Rome, and says Mark wrote down Peter's preaching after their departure.

"Matthew also wrote a Gospel in the Hebrew language while Peter and Paul were preaching in Rome and laying the foundations of the Church."

later in the same passage

"After their departure, Mark, the disciple and interpreter of Peter, wrote down what Peter had preached."

POINT 4 OF 8

Irenaeus says John wrote later

Our note · compiled by machine learning · From the text: says what the passages say

Irenaeus then names Luke as Paul's companion who wrote down Paul's Gospel, and says John published his Gospel later, while living at Ephesus. This matches Origen's statement that John's Gospel came last.

"Luke, the companion of Paul, recorded in a book the Gospel preached by him. Later on, John, the disciple of the Lord, who had leaned upon His chest, published a Gospel during his time in Ephesus in Asia."

POINT 5 OF 8

Matthew wrote first for Jewish readers

Our note · compiled by machine learning · From the text: says what the passages say

Both Origen and a fragment of Irenaeus say Matthew's first readers were Jewish. Irenaeus explains that this is why Matthew begins with Christ's family line from David, a point his readers cared about.

5 “He wrote it in the Hebrew language and published it for converts from Judaism.”

POINT 6 OF 8

Clement ties Mark's Gospel to Peter's preaching

Our note · compiled by machine learning · From the text: says what the passages say

Clement of Alexandria also links Mark's Gospel to Peter's preaching at Rome. He says Mark wrote while Peter was still preaching there, so that hearers could remember what was said. This differs slightly from Irenaeus, who places Mark's writing after Peter and Paul departed.

7 “Mark, Peter's follower, wrote what is called the Gospel according to Mark while Peter was publicly preaching the Gospel at Rome before some of Caesar's equites and giving many testimonies about Christ.”

POINT 7 OF 8

Another early list counts Luke third, John fourth

Our note · compiled by machine learning · From the text: says what the passages say

An early fragment preserved under the name of Caius also counts Luke's Gospel as the third book and John's as the fourth. This fits the same order the other writers give.

“The third book of the Gospel, the one according to Luke, was written by Luke, the well-known physician, in his own name and in order after the ascension of Christ, when Paul had taken him with himself as one devoted to what is right.”

later in the same passage

“The fourth Gospel is that of John, one of the disciples.”

POINT 8 OF 8

Tertullian ranks Gospels by authority, not date

Our note · compiled by machine learning · Interpretation: our reading of the passages, not their words

Tertullian names John and Matthew first because they were apostles, and Luke and Mark after them as apostolic men. He is ranking their authority, not giving a writing order. He also says small differences in the order of their stories do not matter when they agree on the faith.

“Of the apostles, therefore, John and Matthew first instill faith into us. Of apostolic men, Luke and Mark renew it afterward.”

THE LIMITS

What these passages don’t tell us

- These passages do not give a year for any Gospel.
- They do not explain how Matthew's first Hebrew writing relates to the Greek Gospel we read today.

© 2026 The Historic Faith · Library only, never the web · For personal study; please don’t republish.

- Clement and Irenaeus differ on whether Mark wrote during Peter's lifetime or after his departure.
- A word-for-word match shows that a quotation really is in our text. It does not show that our reading of it is right, or who wrote each work.

ABOUT THIS STUDY

A THF member asked “What was the first Gospel written?” on May 18, 2026. The Historic Faith answered it as a public study on November 9, 2026.

Library only. This study was written only from The Historic Faith’s library of early-Christian writings and the Bible, never from the web. Every passage we kept from what the library gave is listed above, with a link to read it.

How it was made. Compiled by machine learning from The Historic Faith’s library of early-Christian writings and the Bible only. Every quotation was matched word for word against our stored text. Not yet reviewed by The Historic Faith.

How to cite this study. The Historic Faith, “What was the first Gospel written?” Early Church Questions, published November 9, 2026, https://thehistoricfaith.com/early-church-questions/what-was-the-first-gospel-written. To cite one quotation, add its number and source, for example “quote 1, source 9.”
